Missouri Task Force on Children's Justice

2016 Program Performance Annual Report

Establishment and Maintenance of Task Force (Sections 107(b)(2) and 107(e)(1) of the Act

The Task Force on Children's Justice was established under the federal Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA) in 1991. All states receiving CAPTA funding are required to maintain a state, multi-disciplinary task force on children's justice. Missouri's Task Force is comprised of 21 members representing most urban and metropolitan jurisdictions, as well as rural locations in the State, and includes law enforcement, judges and attorneys involved in both civil and criminal child abuse and neglect proceedings, child advocates, court appointed special advocates (CASA), health and mental health professionals, individuals representing child protective service agencies, individuals experienced in working with children with disabilities, representatives of parents' groups, adult former victims of child abuse and or neglect, and individuals experienced in working with homeless children and youth (as defined in section 725 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11434a)).

The mission and responsibility of the Task Force is to assist the State in developing, establishing, and operating programs designed to improve child welfare; in particular, the handling of child abuse and neglect cases, the handling of child abuse related fatalities, the prosecution of child abuse cases, particularly sexual abuse, and the handling of cases involving children with disabilities or serious health related problems. The Task Force is also charged with the oversight and distribution of Children's Justice Act federal grant money and reformation of policy and State laws related to the improvement of the investigative response to child abuse and neglect and the reduction of trauma to child victims.

Statement of Needs

The Task Force on Children's Justice requires stable, flexible, and ongoing funding to support efforts to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and reduce trauma to child victims.

This will assist the State in its efforts to expand training, expand services, provide better staff development opportunities and positive work environments, and promote a positive image and gain public support with the end goal being improved ability to recruit, train, and retain staff, and ultimately enhance the State's ability to respond to child abuse and neglect in the most timely and effective manner. The Task Force requires assistance and support from many state and local partners to succeed in these efforts.

Project Impacts and/or Progress

In 2015, the Task Force continued to make significant progress in its efforts. The Task Force examined its work from previous years and began formulating some of its findings into recommendations for improvement of the child welfare system's investigative and prosecutorial response. Members were very active, engaged in the work, and motivated to find ways to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. During the past year, the Task Force met quarterly, reviewed and discussed activities to improve the investigative, administrative, and judicial handling of cases of child abuse and neglect, including child sexual abuse and exploitation; cases involving suspected child maltreatment-related fatalities; and cases involving a potential combination of jurisdictions, such as intrastate, interstate, Federal-State, and State-Tribal, in a manner which reduces additional trauma to the child victim and the victim's family and also ensures procedural fairness to the accused.

In addition to meeting quarterly, the Task Force via the use of subcommittees, held in-person meetings and conference calls, conducted case reviews, reviewed policy, tracked and evaluated proposed legislation, reviewed reports, and engaged in dynamic discussions which clearly displayed the value of having a multidisciplinary task force involved in the evaluation of the child welfare system's response to reports of child abuse and neglect.

While the Task Force has been laser focused, as charged, on improving the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and reducing trauma to children, over the past two reporting periods the Task Force has been making efforts to connect its work to other child welfare program areas and objectives. At the December 10, 2015, meeting of the Task Force, in an effort to help the Task Force better understand how the work of CJA and other child welfare program improvement efforts come together and impact each other, Children's Division Director Tim Decker presented the Task Force with an update on the progress of the Child and Family Services Plan (CFSP) 2015 – 2019 and the Annual Progress and Services Report (APSR). This update also included an overview of the Children's Division's progress on implementation of "Signs of Safety", "Five Domains of Well-Being", and piloting of the Differential Response Model, Trauma and Secondary Trauma Training. Director Decker provided the Task Force a two page handout and a graphic outlining the Five Year Plan and plan for improvement. The Task Force was able to review the plan, ask questions of Director Decker, and provide feedback. The activities and recommendations included in this report provide further evidence of the Task Force's awareness of these plans and programs and efforts to consider these efforts when discussing and brainstorming ideas for potential projects for improvements in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect moving forward.

Task Force Activities, Outputs, and Outcomes

The following are the activities completed by the Task Force and its subcommittees for the 12 month period preceding the date of submission:

Review of the 2014 State Child Fatality Review Panel Annual Report (CFRP)

On January 5, 2016, the 2014 State Child Fatality Review Panel Report was sent to the Task Force for review. This report provides statewide statistical data about how children in Missouri die each year and offers systemic and prevention recommendations from the many child fatality review panels responsible for reviewing those deaths. Task Force members were able to review this report and gain a more comprehensive view of the overall system charged with protecting children and investigating and prosecuting child abuse and neglect cases. The Task Force supported three recommendations made in this report: 1) enact and enforce laws that punish those who harm children; 2) expand training on recognition and reporting of child abuse and neglect; and 3) support development and training for multi-disciplinary teams to investigate child abuse. These three recommendations are consistent with CJA's mission and purpose and past and current recommendations made by the Task Force.

Critical Event Review Committee

The critical event review committee began meeting quarterly to review child abuse and neglect cases, including fatalities, near-fatalities, and serious physical injuries in the fall of 2013. This committee continued to meet quarterly in 2014 and 2015 and moving forward intends for this to be an ongoing activity of the Task Force. The committee found consistently reviewing individual cases representative of all regions of the state to be very educational and essential to conducting a comprehensive assessment of the child welfare system's response to child abuse and neglect. These comprehensive reviews afforded committee members the opportunity to review reports and the investigative responses of each of the individual disciplines involved in the investigative process. Each quarter during this reporting period the committee reviewed at least two cases, but often three depending upon the complexity of the cases, and made many case specific recommendations. Because these cases represented only a small sample size of the total number of cases being investigated in Missouri, case specific recommendations were evaluated and prioritized in the context of findings from the combination of Task Force activities including the survey conducted as part of the three year assessment. This approach provided the Task Force the means to make recommendations from a broader systemic perspective. Recommendations gleaned from this process are included in the three year assessment portion of this report.

Finance Committee

In 2015, the finance committee met quarterly via conference call to review grant applications and to actively monitor the expenditure of funds. Meeting quarterly prior to the meeting of the full Task Force to thoroughly review grant applications and discuss all aspects of the applications proved to be very beneficial to the Task Force in its charge of ensuring the appropriate use of CJA funds. The finance committee provided recommendations to the Task Force on grant applications reviewed or other funding requests, with the Task Force having the final vote.

The finance committee recommended and the Task Force voted to fund the following projects which were successfully completed in 2015:

The Child Center Inc. and the St. Charles County Prosecuting Attorney's Office 2015 Crimes Against Children Conference (April 1-3, 2015)

The Crimes Against Children Conference was held April 1-3, 2015. The Task Force approved funding for this conference, including 75 scholarships for multi-disciplinary team members to attend. The primary goal of the conference was to improve the investigative response, expertise, and understanding of child abuse and neglect, child sexual abuse, child sexual exploitation and domestic violence for multi-disciplinary team members and professionals working with these targeted populations. The conference offered a variety of training sessions all designed to enhance the skills of multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. Legislative Committee

In 2015, the legislative committee actively followed the progress of the legislative session. The committee chair person sent weekly legislative updates to the Task Force on the progress of bills pertinent or of interest to the Task Force.

During the 2015 session, there were several bills that pertained to child welfare in general, but only one omnibus child welfare bill, Senate Bill 341, was truly agreed and finally passed. This bill had several provisions related to child welfare, however, the main provision of SB341 that pertained to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse required the Children's Division to complete an assessment approach when a report is received alleging a juvenile under the age of fourteen has committed an act of sexual abuse against another child. These reports were previously taken as non-caretaker referrals and not investigated by the Children's Division, but rather referred to the appropriate law enforcement agency or juvenile office for investigation. Under the new provisions these reports will be assessed by the Children's Division using the family assessment and services approach resulting in a more treatment oriented rather than punitive response to these reports. The bill had a few other provisions which also impacted the Children's Division, but do not pertain to investigation or prosecution. One provision authorized the Office of Child Advocate to conduct an independent review of any entity within a county that experienced three or more review requests in a calendar year including, but not limited to the Children's Division, Juvenile Office, and Guardian ad Litem. Another provision required the Children's Division to create an acronym to help children remember the phone number for the Child Abuse/Neglect hotline. The Children's Division responded to the new requirements by developing an acronym which translated to a phone number that when dialed automatically rolled over to the current number for the Child Abuse/Neglect Hotline. The number is 1-844-CAN-TELL. This same provision required schools to post signs with this acronym and information on reporting child abuse and/or neglect. The legislature allocated funding to the Children's Division for five full-time employees (FTE) to assist in the implementation of SB341. This bill went into effect as law on August 28, 2015.

Training Committee

In 2015, the training committee had a limited role with the Task Force, but continued to make efforts to stay abreast of training opportunities for professionals and other community partners involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. The training committee updated the "Missouri Child Abuse and Neglect Educational Opportunities" listing posted on the CJA website. The Missouri organizations listed on the CJA website offer opportunities for training on topics pertinent to child abuse and neglect.

Recruitment Committee

The Recruitment committee is responsible for monitoring CJA's membership, to ensure it consists of a minimum of 21 members and represents the required disciplines as specified in Section 107(c)(1) of the Act. In 2015, the Task Force experienced some vacancies in the membership due to term limits, but once again successfully recruited highly qualified individuals to fill these vacancies and maintained the membership requirements as defined by the Act. The current membership includes at least one member from the following categories: law enforcement community, criminal court judges, civil court judges, prosecuting attorneys, defense attorney, child advocates, attorneys for children, health professionals, mental health professionals, Children's Division staff, parents and representatives of parents' groups, adult former victims of child abuse and or neglect, individuals experienced with working with homeless children and youth, and individuals experienced in working with children with disabilities.

While the Task Force presently enjoys full membership, the recruitment committee will continue to be active in seeking interested and qualified individuals to fill future vacancies. Applications for membership will continue to be accepted and reviewed on an ongoing basis. Those interested may attend all open meetings in advance of selection to the Task Force. The membership application is posted on the Task Force's state website.

Three-Year Assessment

Evidence of the Task Force's efforts to thoroughly and comprehensively assess Missouri's response to child abuse and neglect is documented throughout this report. In addition to its ongoing efforts, in January 2015, the Task Force developed and published a survey to assess the effectiveness of the multi-disciplinary approach to child abuse and neglect investigations and to conduct a comprehensive statewide review and evaluation of the investigative, administrative, and judicial handling of child abuse and neglect cases.

The Task Force sent the survey to community partners, multi-disciplinary team members, other stakeholders and citizens via email, Survey Monkey, and by posting it on Missouri's CJA website. Task Force members shared the survey with others associated with their respective disciplines. The Children's Division, with the assistance of the Office of State Courts Administrator and the Missouri Juvenile Justice Association, ensured Children's Division workers, juvenile officers, other court staff and judges were afforded the opportunity to participate in the survey as well. As a result of these efforts the Task Force was able to ensure the opportunity for a statewide response to the survey which included representation from members of all disciplines involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect as well as other professionals and citizens interested in child abuse and neglect. The response to the survey was much improved from the response to the previous survey and resulted in over 900 responses representative of all regions of the state, all multi-disciplinary members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect, and other community partners, stakeholders, and citizens. The survey results assisted the Task Force in evaluating the effectiveness of Missouri's system in the investigative, administrative, and judicial handling of child abuse, making recommendations for system improvements, and identifying service gaps or specific issues Task Force funding may be helpful in addressing.

The Task Force evaluated and utilized information gained from the survey in conjunction with results from the previous three-year assessment, information gathered through other activities of the Task Force, the work conducted by the critical event review committee and priorities and recommendations from 2014 and 2015 which continue to be priorities and need ongoing efforts from the Task Force and the Children's Division.

Consistent with the requirements of section 107(e)(1)(A),(B), and (C) respectively the 2016 priorities are as follows:

(A) Activities to Improve the Investigative, Administrative, Judicial Handling of Cases

- (1) The Task Force will continue to assist the Children's Division and multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect by focusing efforts on developing, supporting and funding more comprehensive training, including but not limited to: trauma informed training for investigators, multi-disciplinary team training, forensic interview training, child fatality investigative training, identification of child abuse and neglect, mechanisms of injury, identification of appropriate collateral contacts and witnesses and proper use of safety and risk assessment tools in the investigative process. The Task Force and Children's Division have made great strides to address identified areas of need and begun to implement training (as described throughout this report) to improve the Children's Division and the multi-disciplinary team's ability to respond to reports of child abuse and neglect. The Task Force will need to continue to support the Children's Division in these efforts.
- (2) The Task Force, specifically the Critical Event Review Committee, continued to see in its reviews that investigators seemed to have difficulty determining next steps, how to utilize and determine appropriate collateral contacts, how to identify and gather information from witnesses, how to determine safety, what leads to follow, how to accurately identify medical issues and when to request expert medical reviews, etc. In response to this, in 2016 the Task Force plans to join members of the Critical Event Review Committee with members of the Training Committee and the Children's Division's Training Unit to begin discussions about the development of additional training tools. One of the ideas being discussed is the development of an interactive and instructional training video utilizing mock cases created by the use of scenarios and facts derived from actual cases reviewed by the Critical Event Review Committee. While the development of this training tool will take some time, once developed, its intent would be to allow investigators to pause, think critically, and answer questions about what the next steps would or should be based upon information available or missing at various points during case scenarios being described. The Task Force's long term plans for this video would be for it not only to be included as part of the training curriculum for Children's Division staff, but to share the video with other multidisciplinary partners for their training use as well with the intent of improving the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. This project is in the infancy stage of development as the Task Force anticipates needing significant input from a variety of sources before a final product could be achieved.

(B) Steps to Establish Experimental, Model, or Demonstration Programs

- (1) The Task Force will continue to assist the Children's Division in promoting the use of the Peace Officer Standards Training (POST) certified training developed for law enforcement and first responders, "Child Maltreatment and the First Responder" through networking with other professionals and stakeholders involved in the child protection community, most specifically those involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. During this reporting period, the State Technical Assistance Team (STAT) delivered this training in eight locations throughout the state and was able to reach approximately 150 multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. STAT plans to continue to offer this training moving forward in an effort to strengthen the multi-disciplinary response to child abuse and neglect statewide and to offer additional trainings related to the investigation of child fatalities.
- (2) The Task Force will support a project to develop a smart phone application for investigators that will provide critical information regarding the specific ways injuries occur in children. This "Child Protector Smart Phone Application" is being developed by the Children's Mercy Hospital Division of Child Abuse and Neglect and will be available for use by all multidisciplinary team members involved in the investigation of child abuse and neglect. Missouri CJA's own Dr. James Anderst has utilized his expertise along with several other physicians at Children's Mercy Hospital to provide the most up to date information about mechanisms of injuries to children for the development of this application. Once developed, the application will be available for download to smart phones, iPads, and other electronic devices and be embedded in child protection agency's websites for immediate use by investigators and others working to prosecute child abuse and neglect and will have an immediate statewide impact when most needed at the very beginning of investigations.
- (3) The Task Force will continue to support the Children's Division's efforts to implement the mobility project step by step through phases of testing and refinement of the new applications. The mobility project involves the use of iPads with the capability of interfacing with Family and Children Electronic System (FACES) and allows Children's Division workers to gain access to essential information and have the tools necessary to input additional information into FACES as the work occurs in the field. The project is designed to assist investigators in conducting more timely and accurate child abuse and neglect investigations.

(C) Activities to Reform State Laws, Ordinances, Regulations, Procedures or Protocols

The Task Force will continue to review Children's Division policy and law related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect.

- 1) In 2015, the Task Force closely monitored the legislative session as it related to the investigation of child abuse and neglect. The Task Force followed and supported several bills designed to either improve the investigative process or reduce trauma to children experiencing abuse and neglect proceedings, which in the end did not pass. In 2016, the Task Force continues to review Children's Division policy and laws related to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and monitor the progress of bills which would likely impact the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. Bills of particular interest to the Task Force introduced or reintroduced in 2016 are as follows:

House Bill 1877 and Senate Bill 963 – Companion bills requiring courts to notify the Children's Division if the court finds preponderance of the evidence of child abuse and neglect by an individual. The Children's Division would then place the perpetrator on the Child Abuse and Neglect (CA/N) Central Registry.

House Bill 2202 and Senate Bill 971 – Companion bills designed to protect alleged child sexual abuse victims by limiting the disclosure of photographs and visual and aural recordings created by a child advocacy center, health care provider, or a multi-disciplinary team member in the course of investigations of child abuse and neglect. Only designated parties, including the multi-disciplinary team, could obtain copies of such photographs or aural or visual recordings. Further release of such records would require a court order. Certain individuals would be allowed to view the photographs or visual and aural recordings, but would not be allowed to receive copies.

House Bill 1525 - This bill proposes to eliminate the statute of limitations for recovering damages for certain actions regarding child abuse and sexual offenses committed against a child. Current law imposes a 10 year statute of limitation on commencing proceedings to recover of damages. This bill also allows for prosecution of unlawful sexual offenses involving a child to be commenced at any time. Current law requires commencement of prosecution of such offenses to occur within 30 years after the victim reaches the age of 18.

House Bill 1562 – This bill expands the crime of sexual trafficking of a child to include advertising a child to participate in a commercial sexual act.

- 2) In 2016, the Task Force will continue to investigate use of standardized interviewing protocols. In 2015, the Children's Division took a significant step towards a more standardized cursory interviewing model for front line Children's Division workers and multi-disciplinary team members through the Child Abuse Investigations training. While the training has been well received, the Children's Division and the Task Force continue to evaluate whether or not there may be other trainings that better meet the needs of Children's Division investigators. Moving forward the Children's Division will be exploring the possibility of developing training with comparable benefits of some of the components found in the Child Abuse Investigations training, but including other training components, including the use of the Signs of Safety model, more designed to fit the specific needs of the Children's Division investigator. Presently, it is unclear what the training might look like, but several ideas have been presented both by the Task Force and by the Children's Division training unit. Improving staff training for investigations is a priority for Task Force and the Children's Division.
- 3) The Task Force will continue to research statutes related to child abuse and neglect in other States throughout the country to determine consistency of the laws and whether or not current Missouri laws adequately protect children.

In addition to the priorities consistent with the requirements of section 107(e)(1)(A),(B), and (C), the Task Force recommended the Children's Division continue to take steps to address the following barriers identified as impacting the effective handling and prosecution of child abuse and neglect investigations:

1. Insufficient communication between multi-disciplinary team (MDT) members resulting in inadequate investigations and prosecution

Children's Division response: The Children's Division, with the support of the Task Force, will continue to work with members of all disciplines to improve communications in the multi-disciplinary team response to child abuse and neglect allegations. The Children's Division will work on this not only in the normal course of business through the investigative process, case reviews, development of multi-disciplinary team protocols, and multi-disciplinary team meetings, but also through multi-disciplinary team trainings funded by the Task Force. One of the objectives in the CFSP 2015-2019 is to strengthen Child Advocacy Centers and multi-disciplinary team partnerships through training. The Task Force will continue to support and consider CJA grant applications submitted for the purposes of addressing training needs of Children's Division staff, Child Advocacy Centers, and multi-disciplinary team members to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and strengthen partnerships amongst team members.

2. Inadequate training, including investigative training and trauma training

Children's Division response: In 2014, the Children's Division secured funding from the state legislature through the budget process for the Children's Division to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect through comprehensive investigative training for staff. The funding was designated for training Children's Division front line workers focused on enhancing interviewing skills, collection of evidence, and stronger collaboration with team members such as law enforcement and prosecuting attorneys. The Children's Division has continued its work with the legislature and emphasized the need for ongoing funding for comprehensive training for staff and build upon Task Force recommendations, specifically investigative and trauma training, as identified in this survey as well as the survey conducted as part of the previous three-year assessment. This is also one of the objectives of the CFSP 2015-2019. Improved training is intended to enhance workers skills, increase the likelihood of more thorough investigations, and better ensure safety for children. In 2015, the Children's Division furthered its efforts to respond to this recommendation through a contract with Missouri KidsFirst to provide Gunderson National Child Protection and Training Center ChildFirst curriculum to all investigative and supervisory staff. Children's Division staff received this training in 2015 and the Task Force approved use of CJA funding to support this training for other multi-disciplinary team members responsible for the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect, including law enforcement, prosecutors and forensic interviewers. The Children's Division is currently and will continue to develop plans to include either this training or a comparable training as part of the regular curriculum for all Children's Division workers charged with investigating child abuse and neglect.

In 2015, in addition to investigative training, Children's Service Workers received Secondary Traumatic Stress Training and trauma informed training. This training was specifically designed to help front line workers identify and understand trauma children may be experiencing as the investigative process unfolds as well as trauma staff may experience due to their involvement in the investigative work. The Children's Division intends to continue efforts to secure ongoing funding for staff training with the hope of including trauma training as part of the ongoing curriculum. Becoming a trauma-informed agency is another objective identified in the CFSP 2015-2019. This training is a significant step towards meeting that objective.

In summary, the three-year assessment through the use of the this year's survey results, the previous survey results, information gathered from critical event reviews, and the additional information gathered through the multitude of activities of the Task Force has revealed the most significant barriers to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect as follows: Inadequate investigative training and insufficient communication, coordination, or teamwork between multi-disciplinary team members involved in the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect. Some of these issues can be attributed to worker turnover rates, high caseloads, etc. and differences from jurisdiction to jurisdiction as indicated in previous reports. However, these barriers continue to be present at some level statewide. While these are not the only barriers, these appear consistently to be the most predominant.

The Task Force and the Children's Division continue to strive to address these barriers on a statewide level. As indicated throughout this report, the Task Force and the Children's Division have plans in place to continue efforts to improve the work together to make things better for child victims. CJA funding has been and will continue to be essential for the continuation of efforts to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and reduce trauma to the children we serve.

Application for Proposed Activities for FY16

In 2016, to ensure compliance with the CJA program instructions and to further improve the collaboration efforts of the Task Force with other groups and committees developed to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect and improve court programs, the Task Force plans to utilize its current Task Force member and Family Court Programs Coordinator, Kim Abbott, to keep the Task Force informed of the progress of efforts, initiatives and programs being developed and implemented by the Court Improvement Program (CIP). Ms. Abbott is Missouri's contact for the CIP and will have the opportunity to provide the Task Force with updates on the progress of the CIP when in attendance at the quarterly Task Force meetings. The Task Force hopes this collaboration will help align some of the work of the Task Force with the CIP. Heightening the awareness of the Task Force to the work of the CIP as well as the plans and objectives outlined in the APSR/CFSP 2015-2019 will further the Task Force's ability to assess Missouri's overall response to allegations of child abuse and neglect and to make more informed recommendations for systems improvement moving forward.

In 2016, the Critical Event Review Committee will continue to meet quarterly to conduct critical event reviews and make recommendations on cases of child abuse and neglect, focusing primarily on child fatalities, near fatalities and serious physical injury cases. Case specific recommendations will be compiled, evaluated and prioritized as it relates to more systemic concerns to address issues and barriers to the effective handling and prosecution of child abuse and neglect cases.

In 2016, the finance committee will continue meeting quarterly, to review grant applications, monitor expenditures, and evaluate the use of CJA funds. The Finance Committee will continue to support the improvement of the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect by recommending to the Task Force the funding of grants designed to improve the investigative response and the prosecution of child abuse and neglect. The Task Force will be focusing on funding projects aligned with the Task Force's recommendations for systemic improvement. The Task Force will be particularly interested in funding projects that will enhance training for multi-disciplinary team members investigating child abuse and neglect and any innovative pilot projects designed to focus on improving that process and/or reducing trauma to child victims during the investigative process.

In 2016, the legislative committee will continue to follow legislation pertinent to the work of the Task Force and through the review of the prioritized recommendations made as a result of the critical event review committee and the three year assessment, determine whether or not pursuit of legislative proposals to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect may be appropriate in the coming year.

In 2016, the Recruitment Committee will continue to ensure the Task Force is at full membership and remains in compliance with Section 107(c)(1) of CAPTA. The Recruitment committee will also continue to work on ways to promote the work of the Task Force in a way that would attract the interests of qualified persons to fill future vacancies.

In 2016, the Training Committee plans to utilize information gained from the recommendations from the critical event review committee and the survey sent to CJA community partners and stakeholders to identify training CJA may need to support or develop to meet the needs of multi-disciplinary professionals investigating child abuse and neglect statewide. In addition, the training committee, along with other members of the Task Force, has been contemplating producing an interactive and instructional training video designed to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse and neglect through the use of information learned from cases reviewed by the Critical Event Review Committee. Development of this training video is in the infancy stage, but the training committee and other interested members of the Task Force are hopeful that progress will be made on the development of the video in the months to come.

The Task Force will monitor the outcomes of the Children's Division's Child Abuse and Neglect Annual Report and the Missouri State Child Fatality Review Program Annual Report. The Task Force will discuss and make recommendations for improvement based on information gathered in collaboration with these reports and findings.

Proposed activities for the Task Force and projects approved for CJA funding in 2016 include but are not limited to the following projects:

Task Force on Children's Justice Operating Expenses and Projects

Funding is needed to support and maintain the activities, correspondence, teleconferences, quarterly meetings of the Task Force, meetings of Task Force subcommittees, and attendance for a minimum of two persons to attend a CJA annual conference, in addition to funding grant project requests that may arise as appropriate.

Child Advocacy Centers

Child Advocacy Centers in Missouri improve the process by which Missouri responds to cases of child abuse and neglect, particularly child sexual abuse or exploitation. CJA's support of Child Advocacy Centers has allowed the centers to continue to offer forensic examinations, victim interviews, referrals to treatment providers, gathering and retention of forensic evidence used for criminal prosecution of the offender.

There are 15 Child Advocacy Centers located across the State, with some locations having satellite offices and serving children and families in the surrounding counties. In total, CAC services are provided in 22 fully accredited locations around the state. The availability of these centers allows for a one-time interview of the victim as well as the opportunity for the physical examination to occur in the same location, preventing unnecessary stress and trauma to the child victim and their family. Child Advocacy Centers often facilitate scheduling the exams and interviews to further assist in the investigation and criminal prosecution process.

In 2016, CJA plans to continue to provide support to Child Advocacy Centers through the use of CJA grant funding.

Operation CyberSafe – State Technical Assistance Team (STAT) – Equipment

STAT submitted a grant application for equipment designed to gather evidence from digital devices such as cell phones, smart phones, tablets, and other handheld cellular devices. STAT's request is to cover the cost of state of the art equipment and training to use the equipment to be able to recover data from the latest and greatest smart phones. The equipment known as Joint Test Action Group or JTAG allows High Tech Investigators to access digital data stored in a smart phone and by-pass the phone's operating system to do so. This will allow investigators to recover evidence of crimes against children including sexual abuse, sexual exploitation, child pornography etc. in the most effective manner currently available to investigators. This technology will allow investigators the best opportunity to detect and apprehend individuals committing crimes against children when these same individuals have taken other measures to prevent investigators from being able to locate the evidence on their devices. STAT's use of this equipment will enhance the agency's ability to investigate and prosecute child abuse and neglect.

Missouri KidsFirst – Child First Training (May 2-6, 2016)

Missouri KidsFirst submitted a grant request for funding of one training session of the ChildFirst Curriculum. This training includes a three-day and a five-day training choice. Field staff and investigators would likely attend the three-day session designed to teach investigators how to conduct initial interviews of children prior to referring them for a forensic interview. Lessons in child development and court preparation are also included. The five-day session, which is the three day session with two additional days added on, is designed for child protection professionals intending to conduct forensic interviews of children and provides the opportunity to conduct mock interviews with actors and receive feedback on actual interview technique. Investigators and workers who attend this training will be better equipped to successfully investigate child abuse and neglect which will result in more successful dispositions and prosecutions of cases.

Scholarship recipients were required to attend workshops related to child abuse and neglect. Goals of the conference as it relates to CJA were to provide professionals who work in the field of juvenile justice and child abuse/neglect investigation with increased knowledge to achieve more thorough and successful investigations. The conference was also designed to bring multi-disciplinary team members together to strengthen and foster better multi-disciplinary relations and create the opportunity to improve the coordinated effort to investigate and prosecute child abuse and neglect. Children's Mercy Hospital - Child Protector Smart Phone Application

The Children's Mercy Hospital Division of Child Abuse and Neglect submitted a grant request to finance the costs associated with developing a Missouri specific "Child Protector" Smart phone application that could be utilized by all multidisciplinary team members involved in the investigation of child abuse and neglect. This smart phone application is a new and improved version of the "Mechanisms of Injury in Childhood" application currently available to Children's Division staff via the Children's Division intranet. CJA's own Dr. James Anderst has utilized his expertise along with several other doctors at Children's Mercy Hospital to provide the most up to date information about mechanisms of injuries to children for the development of this application. CJA in Texas is also funding a version of this program for their state. Once developed, the application will be available for download to smart phones and to be embedded in child protection agency's websites for immediate use by investigators and others working to prosecute child abuse and neglect. The costs associated with this grant request include statewide/regional training on the use of the application and will provide investigators a tool that will literally be at their fingertips when most needed at the very beginning of investigations.
